Both of the Nashville papers have cut the Hopkinsville papers off their exchange lists, even declining to have them paid for on an advertising basis.

The soldiers of Co. D left last night for Ft. Thomas and will in all probability soon be on their way to the border. They are a fine body of young men and boys, who come from the best citizenship of the county. They are patriotic, brave and eager to go. Hardships await them, but they will render a good account of themselves. Mark that.

READY FOR ROAD BUILDING

Plans of Six Leading Roads Have Been Approved.

The Christian county road commissioners held an important session Tuesday. The plans of the Madisonville, Fairview, Nashville, Clarksville, Lafayette and Princeton roads have been returned from Frankfort duly approved and the commission is preparing to advertise for bids for the actual construction.

Yesterday an inspection of the Greenville road was made in an effort to settle the dispute with Muhlenberg county as to which is the most direct county seat route.

If Carranza Does Not Surrender Prisoners Wilson Will Call on Congress.

WILL ASK TO USE FORCE

Will Be Up to Congress to Grant Authority to Rescue Troops by Arms.

Washington, June 28.—Unless Gen. Pending their release, the United States government will not consider any offer of mediation or arbitration.

CAVALRY CHASES RAIDERS.

Columbus, N. M., June 27.—American cavalrymen, assisted by posses of ranchmen and citizens of Hachita and nearby towns today are pursuing bandits who early Tuesday raided a ranch about 35 miles southwest of Hachita, N. M., killing William Parker, the owner and Mrs. Alice Parker, his bride of five months.

According to stories reaching here the bandits are Mexicans who recently have committed numerous minor depredations in the district. Parker, from which Mexican bandits stole a number of head of stock last week, attempted to drive them off, but was forced to retreat to the ranch house. The marauders followed, broke through the door and murdered Parker and his young wife. They are said to have made their way south, driving a number of cattle and horses before them.

MORROW'S GOOD WORK

Succeeds In Getting Hopkinsville "On the Map" of the I. C.

The June issue of the Illinois Central Railroad Magazine is to hand with Hopkinsville the biggest thing in it. By some excellent diplomatic maneuvering Agent Thos. L. Morrow has secured 150 more books than promised and has 450 copies for distribution locally. The total issue exceeds 56,000 and it goes everywhere, to every library, railroad organization, commercial club, etc., throughout the United States and even to foreign countries.

Only the advanced copies have been received here up to this time.

The articles are all written by local men who are in close touch with affairs. The foreword is by George E. Gary and other articles include a resume of the co-operative conditions existing in the county, by M. E. Bacon; real estate, by T. J. McKeenolds; live stock, by S. L. Cowherd; poultry, by B. D. Hill; agriculture, by A. M. Casey, etc.

The pictures cover a wide variety of scenes both in the town and county, and the front cover of the magazine is adorned with a picture of three little girls charmingly posed in a daisy field, the title being "Hopkinsville, Kentucky, Daisies." This was taken in a daisy field near the cemetery.

The books will be distributed by Secretary Richards of the H. B. M. A.

GREAT DEMONSTRATION AT VIRGINIA PARK ON MONDAY NIGHT--FOLLOW- ED BY LIVELY RECRUITING FOR TWO DAYS.

CAMP NEAR NEWPORT, KEN-TUCKY, LAST NIGHT.

A crowd estimated at 4,000 to 5,000 people filled all that part of Virginia Park around the Pavilion Monday night, to witness the presentation of a flag to Company D by the resident veterans of the Spanish war.

The soldiers marched to the park headed by the Third Regiment Band and the exercises were held at 8 o'clock. The flag to be presented was carried by James Wicks.

John Stites presided and after some eloquent preliminary remarks stated that the presentation speech, by a change in the program, would be made by Chas. M. Meacham.

Mr. Stites said: "Fellow citizens of Christian county, and members of Company D:

"Before introducing Mayor Meacham I wish to state that we are all proud of the brave young men who as the representatives of our City, our County and State are going forth to battle, if need be, to fight for us and our Country. They are our representatives, and they are going forth freely and voluntarily to uphold their country's name and honor, to keep the flag unsullied, and to uphold the good name that our forefathers handed down to us. We are proud of the mothers and fathers of these men who are going forth. It is commendable in every way for a parent to give his children to the service of the nation.

"The privilege of being an American citizen brings certain responsibilities that cannot be held lightly. It is the duty of every man to fight for his country, whenever the clouds of war threaten the safety of the nation's honor. This is our highest duty as citizens and it is in response to this duty that these young men have volunteered.

"The veterans of the Spanish-American war are proud of these 115 volunteers that are members of our company, and we know that we shall be proud of their achievements during their enlistment. May every blessing you and each of you so richly deserve be with you."

Mr. Meacham discussed the patriotism of our people, the valor of Kentuckians and the part they had played in all of the country's battles. He laid stress on the heroism of Kentuckians in the former war with Mexico and said their deeds of heroism would be remembered by the soldier boys of today.

Lieut. Riley Butler received the flag and the formal acceptance was by the eloquent young attorney, Lieut. Alvan H. Clark, who said:

"Ladies and gentlemen:—It is not my purpose or my intention to make a lengthy speech tonight. I desire simply, and as modestly as I can, to thank these veterans of the Spanish-American war for having seen fit to entrust this flag into our care and our keeping.

"My friends, I am deeply moved tonight. The fires of patriotism and loyalty have been fanned into flame by this martial music and by these exercises. I do not know what you may think about it, but Old Glory there, unfurled beneath these stars means something to me. Her stars and her stripes guarantee to me a freedom of speech and of thought and the inalienable right to worship my God and my Creator as I think best. Liberty is written into her every fold.

"These things, my friends, have been guaranteed to us by the blood of our fathers shed upon every battlefield of this republic from its inception to this good hour, and I thank my God that I can play my part in handing down the same principles of Liberty and Freedom and of preserving them inviolate to the generations of Americans yet to follow.

"As Kentuckians and Americans we have double traditions to maintain. I am proud of my State. The blood of her sons has enriched every battlefield of this Republic, and I can say tonight, that the same spirit that turned so fiercely in the hearts of Kentuckians in the past now animates these boys who have volunteered to go to Mexico in this hour of our country's need.

"I am thankful to say too, that this patriotism is not confined to our men. I remember that several days ago, as I was going to my home, I saw a mother whose husband is now in khaki, bending over her babe. As I passed her home, I heard some one tell her that the call had come for troops, and before I had passed I saw her bend her head and heard her cry of distress, and her words 'Oh, my God, what shall I do, what shall I do, and yet, my friends, that same girl wife, after hours spent in silent communion with her conscience and her God, can march bravely to the train, when that husband leaves, and with a brave smile upon her face say to him, 'Remember dear, when you strike, to strike for your country and for me.'

"They say that in the late conflict between our country and Spain in the charge up San Juan Hill, the color sergeant of a regiment was struck by a bursting shell from the enemy's guns. He toppled and fell, and as his comrades rushed up and caught him, he drew the flagstaff from his belt, and held Old Glory high aloft, and said, 'Thank God, boys, the old flag never touched the ground.' And I can assure you veterans tonight, that so far as they are concerned, Old Glory shall never touch the ground.

"There may be many of you, my friends, who differ politically, as I do, from the policies of our President. There may be those who are not in sympathy with his administration, but I beg you to lay aside those differences in this hour of our country's need. This is not the time for cavil, neither for criticism nor abuse. We have but one President, one Country and one Flag.

"And now, let me beg of you to stand with bared heads, with a silent and humble prayer in your hearts to Our God while we listen to the strains of the most beautiful and most sacred song on earth,

"The star spangled banner, long may she wave, O'er the home of the free and the land of the brave."

Following these exercises there was a delightful band concert.

The crowd maintained the very best of order throughout the entire evening and there were many demonstrations of approval, all being inspired by a common impulse to do honor to the soldier boys.

Orders came Tuesday night for the soldiers of Company D to leave for the mobilization camp at Ft. Thomas, near Newport, Ky., Wednesday night over the I. C. Railroad at 6 p. m.

The company was yesterday recruited to 115 men and three officers. Privates Risdon Thaxton, of Louisville, and J. T. Lowdermilk, of Carthage, Tenn., absent members, reported for duty and Wilber Ward, Dewey McCord, Roht. Sumner, Lowry Hankins and Marvin Lovelace, all

COMMISSIONERS ARE NAMED

County Judge Lang Declines To Approve Bonds of Washington's Men.

Paducah, Ky., June 26.—City Commissioner L. A. Washington, who was not affected by the ouster suit, this afternoon appointed Zach Bryant a commissioner. The two then selected Don Martin a commissioner, and the three elected Ed Paxton the fourth commissioner. Being unauthorized to elect a Mayor they selected Paxton as Mayor protem, and Frank Burns was elected to succeed Paxton as commissioner.

County Judge James M. Lang refused to approve their bonds, claiming he already had approved the bonds of other men for the same offices. A mandamus will be sought Monday to compel him to approve the bonds. Judge Lang said he would take an appeal on the mandamus. Washington and his board organized today.

Sanders Clay, an appointee of the Governor, qualified for commissioner today. Hal Corbett, also an appointee of the Governor, qualified Friday, as did Mayor Ernest Lackey and Commissioner George C. Wallace, who were reappointed by the Governor.

Commissioner Washington refused to affiliate with them, although his name is on their rollcall. T. L. Hazelip and C. L. VanMeter, commissioners ousted by the Appel-

ITALIANS PUSH TRENTINO GAINS

Two Towns and Numerous Mountain Positions Retaken.

BRITISH ARE ATTACKED

Brussiloff's Drive Nets Nearly 200,000 Prisoners In 17 Days.

London, June 28.—The Austrians in the region southeast of Trent are falling back before the advance of the Italians who have recaptured numerous important points of vantage. The towns of Posina and Arsiero again have fallen into the hands of the Italians while in the entire region between the Adige and Brenta rivers, numerous peaks and mountain positions have been retaken.

The Austrians, according to the Italian war office, vainly attempted to hold back the Italians by a concentrated artillery and machine gun fire but the Italians would not be denied.

There has again been a slackening in the intensity of bombardment on the various sectors around Verdun, and only one infantry attack was attempted Tuesday. This was launched by the Germans on the part of the village of Fleury, northwest of Verdun, which was held by the French. It was repulsed.

The Germans also essayed an attack against the British southeast of Ypres, but this also was without result. In patrol engagements, the British at many points entered German trenches inflicting casualties on the defenders and taking some prisoners.

Four German aircraft have been brought down by British airmen in aerial fights. The British lost one machine.

On the front in northern Russia, the Germans have bombarded Russian positions and followed them up with infantry attacks. Petrograd says that all the attacks were put down by the Russian fire.

The official statement issued by the Russian war office places the number of prisoners captured by Gen. Brussiloff's army between June 4 and June 23 at 198,972 officers and men. The number of heavy guns, machine guns and bomb throwers reached more than 1,000.

late Court, say they are in office, as they took an appeal on the mandate from the Court of Appeals, but they cannot enact any legislation because they have no quorum.

Seeking a Solution.

Two sets of commissioners are claiming office in Paducah, one set named by the Governor and the other by Commissioner Washington, and two of them, Messrs Corbett and Sanders, have submitted the following solution of the controversy, to wit: "That all parties concerned sign an agreement to submit all these matters to Judge William Reed, judge of the McCracken Circuit Court, immediately and agree that a finding made in pursuance to this stipulation shall be binding; that no appeal shall be taken, and that all parties concerned shall acquiesce full in such finding, and put into the undisturbed possession of these offices such men as may be adjudged to be entitled to same under this arrangement.

"This proposition is made to the end that the citizens of this fair city may have their municipal government administered without interruption or question at once."

The Italians have turned upon the Austrians with such fury that they have sent them back in a general retreat along the entire front.

Where now are the principles for which Roosevelt bolted four years ago? The principles have not changed but how about the politician who made monkeys of his followers at Chicago?

If Attorney General Gregory is to be made Justice of the Supreme Court, why not make Secretary of War Baker attorney general and appoint a soldier as Secretary of War? War ought not to be a politician's job.

A Mexican deserter has come forward with the story that Villa was really shot last April in a fight with Carranza troops, by a Mexican forced into his ranks and who later deserted without knowing the result of the bandit's wound. But any kind of Mexican news needs confirmation.

A German report on the aeroplane raid on Karlsruhe June 22 shows that 110 persons, including five women and seventy-five children were killed and 147 persons injured, including twenty women and seventy-nine children. The French made the raid in reprisal for the bombardment of Bar-le-Duc and Lunéville by the Germans.

By a vote of 32 to 6, with nine members declining to vote, the national committee of the progressive party Monday endorsed Charles E. Hughes for president and the bull moose party practically went out of existence as a national political organization. The decision to endorse the republican nominee came at the end of a stormy session led by John M. Parker, the nominee for vice-president. Roosevelt's letter of declining the nomination and declaring himself for Hughes influenced the action of the committeemen, controlled by him with but few exceptions.

The United States consulate at Torreon, Mexico, was demolished June 18, by a mob of 3,000 civilians, led by the mayor of the city and a Carranza army band, according to American refugees arriving at Eagle Pass, Tex. The populace was attending a ball fight, according to the refugees, when de facto government troops forced them to join in an anti-American demonstration. The mob rushed through the streets shouting, "death to all the gringos!" and upon reaching the consulate, destroyed the furniture and then wrecked the building. Afterward the mob congregated in the central plaza of the town, where a mass meeting was held. The mayor and other prominent Mexicans, it is said, addressed this meeting inciting the populace against Americans, advising that all citizens of the United States be run out of the country.

Man Bound to Succeed.
It is the man who carefully pegs his way up step by step, with his mind becoming wider and wider, and progressively better able to grasp any theme or situation, persevering in what he knows to be practical and concentrating his thought upon it, who is bound to succeed in the greatest degree.—Alexander Graham Bell.

CATS ALMOST BLIND IN LIGHT

Bred for Generations in Old Slave Cella Beneath Hotel at Savannah, Ga.

Except for the old slave market at Milledgeville, Savannah has, in the foundations of the Pulaski hotel, Georgia's most remarkable memento of the days when men were sold as chattels.

The basement of this ancient hotel is honeycombed with bricked-up cells used during the period before the war by slave owners for the safe-keeping of their charges en route to and from the big slave markets to the north.

There are very few people of this generation who know of the "underplinnings" of the old hotel. The basement is now inhabited by cats, and these are gradually going blind in the light of day, while their sight in the gloom of the dungeons is being intensified.

Savannah was a great stopping place for the slave owners in the old days, and it was for the convenience of these that the underground apartments were provided when the Pulaski was built something like 100 years ago.

For more than 50 years these old cells have been forgotten, and many generations of felines have bred their kittens in them, shunning the light of day, until the present cycle of cats are almost blind in the light of the sun.

They are a submerged link between the new South and the old.

READ CHARACTER FROM FEET

Shoe Dealer Says They Are a Sure Index to Their Owner's State of Mind.

Delegates attending the annual convention of the Ohio Retail Shoe Dealers' association maintain the feet are closely related to character.

"Feet are not lowly parts of the anatomy—no pun intended," said O. K. Dorn, a Cleveland shoe dealer.

"It's possible to read character from feet, just as a phrenologist reads character from the head.

"Women's feet are especially good indexes of states of mind.

"No matter how serene a woman may be outwardly, you can guess her state of mind from the position of her feet.

"She may say a shoe fits, with a smile on her face, but her feet will betray her. She'll sit with the soles turned toward each other, or keep the soles pressed tightly to the floor. Again she may raise the soles from the floor and press down with the heels.

"Turned-in toes indicate restlessness. Anger is shown by digging the heel into the floor, nervousness by tapping of the foot.

"Police men and detectives often make use of this knowledge to obtain confessions from suspects."—Cleveland Press.

Two Americans British Peers.
William Waldorf Astor is not the only living American-born British peer. Francis Aliston Channing, whose earliest years were spent in Massachusetts, was created a baronet in 1902, and was elevated to the peerage in 1912, when he became Baron Channing. He was born in this country March 21, 1841. His father, Rev. W. H. Channing, closed his pastorate in Cincinnati that year and moved to Boston. In 1852 he succeeded James Martineau as pastor of the Hope street chapel in Liverpool, and although the last years of the Civil war saw him back in America, serving as the chaplain of the national senate, he remained in England for practically the rest of his life. Francis Aliston Channing was educated at Oxford, and has had a distinguished, though not a conspicuous career, both at Oxford and in English public life.

Wanted Pennell in the Trenches.
How am I to give a really vivid picture of trench life as I saw it for the first time? How make it live for others, when I remember that the many descriptive accounts I have read in England, many of them the letters of soldiers, did not in the least visualize it for me? I watched the flares rising from the German lines, watched them burst into points of light over the desolate country called No-Man's-Land and drift slowly down. And I watched the shadows rush back again like the very wind of darkness. I wished that Joseph Pennell might see something of this fascinating night life. It seemed to me that he would be able to catch the beauty of it with his black and whites, make it real for the world, which will never see it as I did, against the dark background, which was my own first glimmering realization of the tremendous sadness, the awful futility of war.—James Norman Hall in the Atlantic Monthly.

Iceland's First Dramatist.
Gudmundur Kamban, who has come to this country to publish his works in English, is Iceland's first dramatist. He was born in Reykjavik, the capital of Iceland, twenty-seven years ago, and at the age of eighteen he began writing his first play, "Hadda Padda." After three years, when it had been published in his native land, he went to Copenhagen to attend the university. Having learned Danish, a language very different from his native tongue, he translated his drama and offered it to the Royal theater of Copenhagen. It was accepted and produced in 1913 and since then has been played in 50 theaters throughout the

REGION BUT LITTLE KNOWN

Real Wilderness is Country Northeast of Lake St. John—Seldom Visited Except by Trappers.

The region northeast of Lake St. John is off at one side, where nobody thinks of going except a few trappers. The mining and timber have not seemed rich enough to draw the white man.

The main avenue of approach is the Big Perihonka, the largest of the Lake St. John rivers. The real wilderness begins in the neighborhood of Lake Tchotogoma, 60 miles up the river. Beyond that stretches a vast region, as fresh and wild, as natural and primitive, as anything discovered by Columbus, and with fewer human tenants. In the last fifty miles of its course the Big Perihonka comes down from its high plateau roaring through defiles of ragged rock and making necessary ten or more portages, several of them in the perpendicular style of architecture. Of late years a rude wagon road has been extended through the burnt-over country between the village of Mistook, near Lake St. John, and the Chinte McLeod, the last but one of these Perihonka falls. The necessity of climbing up a steep river has thus been largely eliminated. Lake Tchotogoma may be reached from the other direction, where the means of access have also been improved, and one coming up from Quebec by the Saguenay boat should go in from that quarter and come out by the new route down the Perihonka.

The outfit is carried from Chicoutimi, at the head of steamboat navigation, up to the foot of rough water in the river, a distance of seven miles. Then comes a wagon journey of 22 miles northerly to the Lac des Iles.—Outing.

BIRD BUILDS 3-ROOM HOUSE

Hammerhead Is So Good an Engineer That Its Nest Will Bear the Weight of a Man.

No single-room apartment satisfies the hammerhead. When he builds his nest he divides it into three rooms—a reception hall, a drawing room and a bedroom. The entire structure is built of sticks, dome shape, and sometimes six feet in diameter. The bird is so good a carpenter and engineer that the nest will bear the weight of a man. In appearance the bird looks always as if he needed a haircut. His long locks, hanging down his neck, have given him his name, hammerhead.

The entrance to his domelike nest is small and on the concealed side. The first room is the hall, where the hammerhead lives when he fears attack. Behind this is the drawing room, the home of the young birds when they outgrow the bedroom.

The bedroom is higher than the rest and safe from floods. Here the female bird deposits eggs on a nest of leaves, and both parents take turns at keeping them warm.

The hammerhead lives in Africa, usually builds his nest near a stream and eats fish, frogs, lizards and small snakes.

FARM POULTRY

RAISE TURKEYS WITH PROFIT

Many a Poor Little Poult Never Comes to Be Beautiful Bird Because of Wrong Start.

Turkey hens raise much better poult than chicken hens, for the reason that they never wean them, but hover them at night and watch over them days until they are nearly grown. Many a poor little poult never comes to be a "beautiful Thanksgiving bird" because he has not the right start in life. He does not require much, and that is just the point where we fail him. We want him to grow, and we stuff him until he gets indigestion, an enlarged liver and numerous other ills, and some fine morning we find him with his little toes pointed toward the North star. In the wild state little turkeys spend the first few weeks of their lives in the woods and live on insects and seeds. They have to exercise to get food and consume only a small quantity at a time. We cannot follow nature exactly, but we can use good sense if we will. A raw egg is nature's food for a young bird. More than that, it is easily digested, and, like insects, it is a meat food, therefore a good substitute. Wheat bran is a bulky and bone-making food and will not harden in the bowels and cause trouble. Sour milk is medicinal to turkeys and chicks also, and is a protein food. The three can be combined in a mash, made rather dry, never sloppy, and make an excellent starter for the little poults. This alone is their food for three weeks, fed in small quantities on a clean board. For the first three days they are better shut in the coop with the mother, but after that they should romp at will in the dry grass.

Grain is given only a little at first, and gradually increased until it forms one whole feeding, preferably at night, and after they are large enough to wander over a wide range one feeding is sufficient each day. Wheat and cracked corn are perhaps the best grains.

ANIMAL FOOD FOR CHICKENS

Sour Milk Exerts Beneficial Influence on Digestion of Young Fowls, Account Its Acid.

The best animal food for chicks is sour milk. On account of the acid it contains sour milk exerts a beneficial influence on the digestion of the chick. Sour milk can safely be kept before the chicks all the time. Milk should always be supplied in fountains that will not permit the chick to get its down wet. A chick stuck up with milk is a sorry sight. Vessels in which milk is supplied should be scalded and aired daily.

Some poultrymen still practice and advocate the feeding of eggs tested out of incubators to baby chicks. A hard-boiled egg, when of known quality, makes a rather indigestible food for the chick's tender organs, but when eggs are fed that come from an incubator that has subjected them to a temperature of 103 degrees for a week, one is courting danger. Not all eggs that are tested out of incubators are infertile.

If you test tested-out eggs to baby chicks be quite certain that they are infertile. Eggs containing blood spots or red streaks should be discarded, as they were fertile and the germs are in a state of decomposition. The infertile egg when held before a strong light, is perfectly clear.

FEEDING CHICKS SOUR MILK

Dangers of White Diarrhea and Other Diseases Can Be Greatly Reduced by Its Use.

By feeding sour milk to chicks, the dangers of white diarrhea and other chick diseases can be greatly reduced. The feeding of sour milk has a beneficial influence for the growth of chicks and in lessening mortality from all causes.

The milk should be fed in porcelain-lined pans and should be kept before the chicks at all times.

FOODS FOR CHILDREN

EXPERTS GIVE ADVICE ON QUESTIONS OF IMPORTANCE.

Directions for the Bodily Needs of the Small Members of the Household—Pure Milk the One Great Thing to Be Desired.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Simple bills of fare, helpful recipes, and practical directions for the preparation of foods for children between three and six years of age are contained in Farmers' Bulletin 717, "Food for Young Children," issued by the United States Department of Agriculture.

The author has carefully avoided the use of all technical dietary terms or systems of grouping and has so classified foods that any mother can meet the following definition of a satisfactory diet for a little child:

"A little child three to six years of age, who is carefully fed in accordance with his bodily needs (as these are now understood) receives everyday at least one food from each of the following groups:

1. Milk and dishes made chiefly of milk (most important of the group as regards children's diet); meat, fish, poultry, eggs, and meat substitutes.
2. Bread and other cereal foods.
3. Butter and other wholesome fats.
4. Vegetables and fruits.
5. Simple sweets."

The relation of food to the condition of the bowels is also an important matter. Grains, particularly those containing the outer or branny layers or coats, are laxative; so, too, are such mildly acid fruits as apples, oranges and grapefruit. So far, therefore, as the important matter of preventing constipation is concerned, coarse grains and mildly acid fruits serve the same purpose. When fruits are to be obtained in abundance, the kind of cereal served is not of great importance. When they are not, the coarser cereals should be used.

The basis of a child's diet should be clean, whole milk—at least a quart a day. Such milk, in addition to water, contains about half a cupful of the very best food substances—butterfat, milk, sugar, lime and other materials needed by the child to make muscle, bones, and teeth. In addition, milk contains a substance thought to promote growth by helping the body make good use of other foods. Where good whole milk is not obtainable, clean, fresh skim milk supplies these substances with the exception of the butterfat, and is, of course, preferable to dirty or questionable whole milk. Milk, however, contains very little iron and therefore spinach and other green vegetables and egg yolks, which are rich in iron, combine well with milk.

The child should drink the milk with the chili taken off, or should consume his full quart a day with cereals and in milk toast, cocoa, milk soups and stews, in cereal puddings, egg-and-milk puddings, custards, junkets, or simple ice creams. Milk stews may be made with vegetables or fish, or to vary the diet these can be combined with cream sauce and served on milk toast. The bulletin therefore gives a large number of recipes for the preparation of various milk dishes which will help children consume the requisite amount of milk without growing tired of this valuable food. Those for milk soups will be found particularly useful, as they give the mother an easy means of preparing many vegetables which are essentials in the child's diet.

Well-baked bread and thoroughly-cooked breakfast cereals are both good for children, and with milk should make up a large part of the diet. Bread and cereal mushes are, to a certain extent, interchangeable, but neither can take the place of milk, meat, eggs, fruits and vegetables. An ordinary slice of bread is equal in food value to about half a cupful of boiled or steamed cereal and about a cupful of flaked or puffed cereal. Different kinds of bread may be used for variety.

The yeast-raised bread given to young children should be at least a day old, or should be toasted or twice baked. Hot breads are likely to be swallowed in large pieces, and are therefore not desirable. Hot breads which are almost all crust, like thin tea biscuits or crisp rolls, are best of the hot varieties.

Under the heading "Meat, Fish, Poultry, Eggs and Meat Substitutes," the author states: "In some families children do not get enough meat and eggs; in others they get too much. A good general rule commonly followed is to give a child, two years old or over, an egg every other day and about the same amount (two ounces) of meat, fish, or poultry on the intervening days. Where meat is omitted, care must be taken to see that other suitable foods take its place—preferably an extra amount of milk and eggs."

Fried meats should not be given to a child, because they are likely to be overcooked and tough and also because the fat may be scorched and thus changed in composition. Scorched fat is almost certain to be harmful to children.

Meat is best given as broiled chop meat or in simple meat stews combined with vegetables. Poultry may be broiled and served with rice. When roasted, only the tender portions should be fed. Highly-seasoned stuffings or rich gravies should not be given to a young child.

Dried and other fish, and oysters, may be used in milk stews. Well-boiled fish is good for variety. Eggs must not be overcooked or they are likely to cause indigestion. The best way to cook eggs is to poach or coddle them. Scrambled eggs may be served occasionally, provided care is taken not to scorch the fat or to overcook the eggs.

Fat is an important part of the food of children. There is more than an ounce of fat (at least two and a half level tablespoons) in a quart of whole milk. If the healthy child is given a quart of milk, has butter on his bread, and meat or an egg once a day, he gets enough fat, and that which he receives is in wholesome form. It is well, therefore, not to give such fatty foods as pastry, fried meats and vegetables, and doughnuts or rich cakes. If the child is constipated, the occasional use of cream or salad oil is desirable, for fat in abundance is laxative.

Bacon or salt pork, cut very thin and carefully cooked, may be given occasionally. It is very important not to burn the fat.

Vegetables and fruits are grouped together because they are similar in that both supply iron, lime, and other mineral matters, and also mild acids. Vegetables are an important but often a neglected part of the child's diet. They should be served at least once a day, as they help to keep the bowels in good condition. Fruits are important for their flavoring, for their laxative effects and doubtless for other reasons, and should be served in some form at least once a day. Fruit juices and the pulp of cooked fruit, baked apples and pears, and stewed prunes, are the safest. The child should not be allowed to eat the skins unless they have been made very tender by cooking.

Sugar is a desirable part of the diet provided it is given in simple sweets and not allowed to take the place of other foods and spoil the child's appetite. Simple sweets are such things as lump sugar, maple sugar, sirups, honey, and plain candy, and those foods in which sugar is combined in simple forms with fruit juices (in lemonade, water ices, jelly, etc.), with flour or starch, as in plain cakes (cup cake, sponge cake, cookies), and with fruit, as in jams, marmalades, and similar things.

Kitchen Measurements.

One kitchen cupful equals one-half pint, or two gills.

Four kitchen cupfuls equal one quart.

Two cupfuls of granulated sugar equal one pound.

Two and one-half cupfuls of powdered sugar equal one pound.

One heaping tablespoonful of sugar equals one ounce.

One heaping tablespoonful of butter equals two ounces or one-quarter cupful.

One cupful of butter equals one-half pound.

Four cupfuls of flour (one heaping quart) equal one pound.

Eight round tablespoonfuls of dry material equal one cupful.

Sixteen tablespoonfuls of liquid equal one cupful.

Cinnamon Rice Pudding.

Buy four ounces or so of the red cinnamon drops, or perhaps two ounces would do for a large, creamy rice pudding, or for half a dozen of individual size. Allow twelve or eighteen drops to each cupful of milk used, and also to each cupful of milk allow one well-washed tablespoonful of rice and about a tablespoonful of sugar. If it is to be served with a sweet sauce do not add any sugar.

Put into buttered baking dish or dishes or into the glass baking molds, and bake from one hour and a half to two hours in a moderate oven, stirring in the top every half hour or even oftener. A meringue may be added and across this strewn some pink sugar or some of the cinnamon drops ground up in a mortar.

Chocolate Cream Pie.

Here is a chocolate cream pie which everybody likes and it has the merit of being cheap. Into your double boiler put one pint of hot water. Blend together one and one-half cupfuls of sugar, four tablespoonfuls of flour, two of cocoa, butter size of small egg, a pinch of salt and stir into the water. Cook until thick. Cover a deep pie plate with rich pastry and set another plate inside and bake a nice brown, fill with cocoa mixture, cover with whipped cream and sprinkle with chopped nuts.

Succotash.

Take the amount of kidney beans desired and soak overnight. In the morning place on stove and add fat salt pork cut into rather small pieces, to taste. Salt. Let simmer until beans are soft. Do not have too much water. The beauty of it is to cook slowly. Just before serving add one can corn and let it simmer. Serve hot. Succotash may also be made from lima beans with corn. Some prefer it that way.

Carrot Stew.

Here is a carrot stew that was sent into the column some years ago by W. D. and I will copy it for you, as I think it is delicious. Cut the carrots in small pieces and cover with milk enough to stew them. Add salt and pepper to taste, and a small piece of butter.

The Newest Rolling Pin.

A recent invention in rolling pins is made of glass, and may be used when making biscuit and cookies, but it is especially satisfactory when working with pastry, as it is fitted with slummin caps which can be removed for the insertion of ice.

SOLDIERS OFF FOR FT. THOMAS

of Hopkinsville, enlisted Tuesday and Gaines Boyd, Patrick Buller and Geo. Richardson yesterday.

The company recruited to 115 men went to the ball park and seated on the bleachers had a group picture taken. Before going to the train there was a parade of the principal streets.

A big crowd was at the depot to see the departure and there were some pathetic leave-takings but the boys were all keen to go.

The train pulled out amid the cheers of those who had assembled to see them off.

W. T. Radford, who was in Pennsylvania, has been ordered to report and is at Ft. Thomas.

Policeman E. L. Talley, appointed quartermaster sergeant, failed to pass the examination, on account of a defective eye, and Martin Underhill, a young photographer in Bowles' gallery, was appointed to this place. Sergt. Underhill is a veteran of the war in the Philippines.

In addition to the company, the Third Regiment Band, of which H. L. Lebkuecher is the leader, will go with 25 men. There are several regimental officers here who will go with the company.

Bandmaster Lebkuecher is required to make a big sacrifice in his business as a cigar maker, but his father, Mr. F. Lebkuecher, of Ohio, has come to take charge of his son's business while he is at the front.

MADISONVILLE BOYS HONORED.

Madisonville, Ky., June 28.—Members of Co. E, third regiment Kentucky national guards of this city, were honored by the citizens of Madisonville and Hopkins county at the court house square here last evening when a mass meeting called for the purpose of bidding the boys goodbye was attended by fully 2,000 people. An appropriate program for the meeting was carried out. A parade participated in by the military company, fraternal organizations and headed by two bands marched through the streets.

The meeting was presided over by Dr. E. B. Hardin. Speeches were made by Mayor D. W. Gatlin, Hon. John L. Grayot, Virgin Y. Moore and others. Capt. M. K. Gordon responded for the company. A collection was taken up and several hundred dollars was collected, and the money will be turned over to the members of the company to use as they see fit.

Following the mass meeting, the Woman's Christian Temperance Union and the Sunday school of Mrs. Maude Morton, gave the members of the company a banquet in the armory.

Capt. Gordon has his company recruited up to 135 men now, and the boys are eager to get away for service. Orders for them to report at Ft. Thomas are expected and both the Madisonville and Earlinton companies are expected to leave tonight.

GOOD-BYE, SWEETHEARTS.

(Memphis Commercial Appeal.)
Back with your shields, O khaki lads,
O laddies brave and true;
You'll find the "girls you left behind"
Still waiting here for you.

Upon the far-flung cactus plain
The Stars and Stripes unbind,
And let the Eagle of the North Scream down the Mexic wind.

Wake up the echoes of the south
With "Tennessee's" fair name;
She puts into your strong, young hands

The record of her fame,
And sends you forth to keep undimmed

Amid the clouds of war
Her symbol on your banner bright—
Her white and steadfast star.

We'll watch for you beside the trails,
Where Glory keeps her score;
O khaki lads our hearts would break
If you came back no more!

Would break, except we'd know the few Left 'neath the Aztec skies
Had shown the whole, wide martial world

The way a hero dies.
But you'll come back, O khaki lads,
And bring your shining shields,
And tell the girls how 'twas you fought

And won on glory's fields!
—SARA BEAUMONT KENNEDY.

Mussel Shells High.

The European war has doubled the price of mussel shells during the last year. This means nothing to the average citizen, but it does mean much to the "mussel-shellers," scores of whom live on the banks of the Ohio near Owensboro during the warm months and make their living by fishing for mussels shells and the pearls that are sometimes found. On account of the European war the demands for the shells practically have doubled and the button factories are busy. Last year the price for the best, or commercial shells, as they are known, was twelve dollars a ton. This year it is twenty-six dollars, with indications that it will go even higher. Last season large shells were hard to dispose of at four dollars a ton, and there is a heavy demand for them now at ten dollars.—Messenger.

A drop of ether injected into the eyeball is recommended by an Italian physician as the most reliable test of death. If life is still present the ether will cause a reddening of the eye, but if death has taken place there will be no change. The mirror test is frequently used for this purpose.

Assyria.

There is no "Assyria" at the present day. A large part of Syria belonged for a while to the ancient empire of the Assyrian kings, and it is altogether probable that the word Syria is an abbreviation of Assyria. Ancient Assyria was the country between the Armenian mountains in the north and the alluvial plain of Babylonia in the south, the Tigris in the west, and the mountains of Kurdistan in the east; the name also included the varying empire which included from time to time different parts of the adjacent territory. Some of the classical writers plainly include Babylonia and Mesopotamia in "Assyria." The Assyrian empire came to an end about 606 B. C., and after its fall the name of "Adiabene" came to be used for the chief part of Assyria proper. In the year 115 A. D. the Roman Emperor Trajan created a Roman province of Assyria, but the attempt to restore the old name was abandoned by the Emperor Hadrian. The modern name of Syria is given both to the actual Turkish vilayet west of Palestine and to the larger region which includes the vilayet of Syria and stretches northeast into Aleppo.

Children Cry FOR FLETCHER'S CASTORIA

Teaching Children to Smile.

A mother had a little girl, her first child, who seemed to have been born with a scowl, says a writer in the Woman's Home Companion. Perfectly well, still she had a morose disposition, which it seemed as though nothing could alter. When a second child was born, the mother made a rule that no one should look at the baby without a smile. With the imitation of childhood the baby at once began, even in her early weeks, to smile back, and as she grew, and the rule still held in the house, she developed into what everyone who knew her called "the smiling baby," and grew up with the sunniest disposition, a joy to everyone. Now, what that mother did any mother can do. A child may actually inherit a serious, even a sulky disposition, yet these may be crowded out while they are undeveloped, by the habit of cheerfulness.

They Wanted Him.

A newspaper man ran across the street the other day to a dairy lunch. He was in a hurry. He leaned against the marble counter and ordered a lamb stew. A man who had been out all night swayed against him several times and his breath exhaled whiskey and onions. "One stew! One stew!" called the boy behind the counter to the kitchen. The newspaper man turned to the inebriate: "Pardon me, sir," he said, "but I think they are paging you."—Saturday Evening Post.

HORSES AND DRIVERS ALIKE

Their Respective Callings Seem to Bear Out to Perfection Harmony in Appearance.

Ever notice how the horse resembles the driver—or the driver the horse? Inquires the Columbus (O.) Dispatch. Here stands an old horse hitched to a scavenger's wagon. The driver, the wagon and the horse all resemble each other. The wheels of the wagon do not "track." They wobble around, making serpentine tracks, and creak and groan as they rumble along. The horse has a spavin on one leg and a misshapen hoof on one foot and a few white patches on his back where the harness in other days has made sores. And there is the driver, poking about in the barrels in the alleys, unkempt, wobbly in his gait, uncertain upon his feet, defection in his features—for all the world like the horse and wagon.

Here comes a fellow down the street driving a high-headed horse, with shiny harness. It seems out of date, of course, for the motor car has rendered obsolete the best of horses and the finest of carriages. But the driver is of the same stripe—a smooth-enough looking fellow, well groomed and barbered to perfection and clothed in flashy apparel. But he, too, seems a bit out of date; at least he carries you back to the "sporty" days of the past. He and the huggy and the horse resemble each other as nearly as the scavenger and his outfit resemble each other.

There goes an ice wagon—a pair of ponderous Norman horses, with strength in every feature. And on the seat of the wagon sits a man of strength, with good, strong arms and robust body, resembling the stability of the wagon and the team.

You can go through the whole list and you will find the resemblance of driver and team and vehicle. We wonder if it will come to be the case with the motor cars when we have a motorized world. We half suspect it will.

THINK MUCH OF ENVIRONMENT

Breeders of Black Cattle Will Have Nothing of Light Color About Their Establishments.

The breeders of the Polled Angus—a particular race of black cattle in Scotland—who make a great point of keeping up the perfect uniformity of their blackness, getting rid of every individual that has even a single white foot, take care to have everything black about their farmsteads. All the buildings are black, the horses are black, the dogs are black, the fowls are black. No breeder will have anything colored or white about his place.

Though no account can be given of the physiological action which makes these precautions effective (as they are asserted to be) in securing the desired results, yet some scientists are strongly inclined to think that some influence of this kind is concerned in producing many singular correspondences between the surface aspect of fishes and crustacea inhabiting shallow waters and the character of the bottoms on which they live.

Putting the Baby to Sleep.

In the matter of sleep, babies are inclined to be contrary. You must first form the time-honored habit of walking the floor with him. Care must be taken not to walk on a highly polished hardwood floor, for if you should happen to drop him he is likely to scratch up the nice, smooth surface. Pick out a room with a rug or a carpet in it, preferably one where your wife has been sewing during the day. In this way the pleasure of the walk will be increased by the delightful pastime of picking pins out of the soles of your feet ever and anon, and the baby will have further opportunity of increasing his vocabulary.

If you object to walking the floor and are willing to stoop to deception you might hire somebody to drive a heavy cart up and down on the cobblestones in front of the house. The baby will think it is the milkman on his morning rounds, and, satisfied that he has kept you awake all night, he will go to sleep with a clear conscience. However, he will never have the same confidence in you after he grows up and learns how you have deceived him.

Had to Have "Owl Car."

A conductor on the Cottage Grove line insists that the following incident really occurred on New Year's morning.

The car was proceeding at about ten o'clock in the morning, when a tipsy individual who had been celebrating the arrival of the new year throughout the night stepped on to the track and hailed the motorman, saying: "Shay, m' fren", is zish Cottage Grove owl car?"

On being assured that it was a Cottage Grove car, but not an owl, he waddled unsteadily back to his seat on the curb, exclaiming: "Go along, then; I'm waiting for my owl car."—Chicago News.

Circumstances Alter Cases.

"Pa, were you ever caught smoking when you were a boy?" asked Tommy Slathers, who had been invited to the woodshed for a private interview with his father.

"Why—er—yes," answered Mr. Slathers.

"Did your father punish you?"

"No, he didn't."

"Then I hope you won't be hard on me because you have caught me smoking."

FOOLED THE BUNKO STEERER
Texan Was Altogether Too Wide-awake to "Fall" for Any Such Barefaced Trickery.

One evening while Colonel Rich's regiment was stationed at the fair grounds a bronzed and broad-shouldered Texan walked into a hotel office, says a New Orleans paper, and, squaring himself at a table, began the task of composing a letter. It was evidently a hard job. He stuck out his tongue, scratched his head, changed pens a dozen times, and went through all the contortions of a man with a hard case of St. Vitus' dance before he concluded the epistle. Then he fished out a black wallet, unwound a strap a yard long, and extracted a $5 bill, which he carefully folded up with the sheet.

By that time the performance had excited the sympathetic interest of several bystanders, and one of them pointed out the mail box in the corner.
"Just put your letter in there, my friend," he said. "Hey?" exclaimed the Texan, glancing up. "I said to drop your letter in that box," repeated the other. The big inmate bent upon him a look of unutterable scorn. "Well, I've heard tell of all kinds of city bunko games," he said slowly, "but that's the dumbest barefaced one of the hull lot! Don't you say nothing, now, or I'll have to smash y'. Say, mister!" he called to the clerk, "kin you tell me where the postmaster keeps his shop?" He was given the proper directions, and returned beaming.

"Say," he asked one of the hotel staff confidentially, "do I really look as green as all that—like I'd bite at such a game?" He was assured that he looked like a thoroughbred, and went away happy. "Hope to die if I ever give any more tips to a Texan," was the comment of the gentleman who pointed out the box.

NO RAISE FOR LEVINSKY

Goldstein Was Able to Prove With Cold Figures That His Employee
Did Not Deserve It.

Levinsky worked for Goldstein at $15 a week for a year or so. Then one day he plucked up courage and asked Mr. Goldstein for a raise.

Goldstein said: "Vy do you wish a raise for? Vat do you vit your time?"

Says Levinsky: "For you I work eight hours; I sleep eight hours and I play around for eight hours."

"Den," says Goldstein, "I show to you vy you do not deserve any raise.
Look! Dere is 365 days in the year.
Yeh? You say yourself you sleep for eight hours a day. Dat is ven told of the year, so ve take it away, 122 days, und dere is left 243. Den ve will take away the time you play around, vich is another 122 days, und ve half 121 days. Ncw you don't haf to work Sundays, so ve vill take away 52, vich lefe us 69."

By this time Levinsky was thinking hard.

"Also," says Goldstein, "you haf off Saturday afternoon, vich is 26 more days, leafe 43. Also for lunch evey day you lose so much time, say for the year 14 days, vich leafe only 29. Now for all these Shentwe holidays in the year, vich are 28 in all, ve must deduct it, vich leafe only one day—that is for Yom Kippur; so you see, Levinsky, the matter is you do not voik for mo enuff that I should raise you even a little."

Bibles on Watch-Chains.

The devout in all lands have their own particular way of giving outward demonstration to their piety. In Russia it frequently takes the form of wearing miniature Bibles as charms on the watch-chain. They are got up in attractive form about an inch square and three-eighths of an inch in thickness, and contain the first five books of the Old Testament. The text of the book is in Hebrew and the titles in Latin. It is true that the hook could not be read without the aid of a powerful magnifying glass, but that does not trouble the Russian
"unco' guid;" he places great reliance

Forgetting Things Learned in Haste.

To commit "points" to memory during a few hours or days of intense application immediately preceding an examination, for instance, little or no work having been performed during the previous course of the term, is a bad mode of study, say scientists.

Things learned thus in a few hours, on one occasion, for one purpose, cannot possibly have formed many associations with other things in the mind.
Their brain processes are led into by few paths and are relatively little liable to be awakened again. Speedy oblivion is the almost inevitable fate of all that is committed to memory in this simple way.

A' Ye Blind?

A large firm in Aberdeen, says Pearson's Weekly, recently engaged as office boy a raw country youth. It was part of his duties to attend to the telephone in his master's absence. When first called upon to answer the bell, he replied to the usual query, "Are you there?" he nodded assent. Again the question came, and still again, and each time the boy gave an answering nod. When the question came for the fourth time, however, the boy, losing his temper, roared through the telephone:
"Man, a' ye blind? I've been noddin' me head off for the last half hour!"

Argyle, Mich.—Mrs. Wm. H. Car-

FACTS

HANDY SELF-FEEDING HOPPER

Small Wooden Box, With Side Taken
Out and Put Back Slanting, Will Be Satisfactory.

The simplest feed hopper can be made out of a small wooden box, taking off one side and putting it in slanting, and have the trough arrangement at the bottom similar to the drawing.
Dry mash will make hens too fat.
If they are fed exclusively, but if the rest of the ration, such as wheat and other grain is thrown in the litter or straw, making them work for that part.

Self-Feeding Hopper.

It will not make them overfat. Care must be exercised with the heavy breeds, especially the Orpingtons, in feeding any dry mash, as they are inclined to walk over to the feed hopper fill up, and then become too lazy to scratch for any other feed. It is a good practice with such a breed to simply let them eat a small quantity, and then fix the hopper, so that they will have to scratch for their feed for the rest of the day. Exercise is one of the main things in egg production, and the entire system of feeding should be directed towards giving them plenty of exercise, and at the same time ensuring a full crop when the bird goes to roost at night time. With the lighter breeds such as Leghorns, there is no trouble, whatever, with the birds becoming too fat, but with the heavier breeds there is a tendency as above mentioned.—Nor-West Farmer.

HOLDER FOR POULTRY WINGS

Device Restrains the Fowl So That It May Be Suitably Dusted
With Insect Powder.

The Scientific American, in describing a poultry wing holder invented by H. Nye of Lansdale, Pa., says:
This invention provides a device whereby the wings of a fowl may be held back and restrained in such position, so that the fowl may be suitably dusted with a germicide. It provides

Poultry Wing Holder

a device of the type described in the nature of a spring clip which may be initially engaged upon the fowl's wings when they are folded back, and a locking device for locking the clip member in position.

EGGS SAVED FOR INCUBATOR

Should Be Kept in Cool, Well-Vent-lated Place—Aim to Keep Germ in Good Condition.

Eggs saved for incubators, or for hatching in any manner, should be kept in a cool, well-ventilated place, and not too dry, so as to retain the moisture and keep the germ in a good, healthy condition. We keep our eggs in bran, using enough to hold the egg up on the small end, says a writer in an exchange. We do not believe eggs cared for in this manner need any turning before being incubated. Each egg must stand alone, and none should be piled on top. Eggs saved for only two or three days can be kept in a basket or flat box, but it is not well to Prominent Factors in The

BIOGRAPHICAL SKETCH 93

Senior Partner in the City's Leading Book and Wall Paper Store.

D. W. KITCHEN.

Few people in or about Hopkinsville will fail to recognize the familiar features portrayed above. As a business man of Hopkinsville, the subject of this sketch has been so long identified with the mercantile interests that he is becoming one of the veterans of the commercial life of Greater Hopkinsville.

Dixon W. Kitchen was born June 30, 1866, and any mathematician who has advanced as far as subtraction can figure out that he will be 50 years old tomorrow, although he does not look it. The place of his nativity was Norfolk, Va., on a farm in sight of the Atlantic ocean. Here he grew to manhood and in due time was ready to leave the parental roof and strike out for himself. His first employment was in a country store and after acquiring some valuable experience he left Virginia and went to Houston, Texas, in 1888 to be a book-keeper in a store. He filled this responsible position for four years, qualifying himself for the mercantile business and incidentally falling in love with a pretty widow. His brother, John R. Kitchen, who had come to Hopkinsville a few years before, had established himself in the furniture business here and in 1892, feeling the need of assistance in his business, sent for Mr. Kitchen and he became a citizen of Hopkinsville. After three years he retired from the furniture business and went into the dry goods business with Richards & Co. in 1895. He had not yet found his life work, but in 1898 another change was made that settled his future. He bought an interest in the Hopper book store and in time became the head of this prosperous house. By 1900 he had acquired a half interest and in 1909 bought out the entire business and incorporated under the name of The D. W. Kitchen Co. About a year ago he sold a part of the business to Mr. W. Durrett Moore, again forming a partnership and the business is now conducted by them as a firm. The stock was greatly enlarged, both partners giving their personal attention to the store. It is the only regular book store in the city and besides the firm handles wall paper, stationery and office supplies. It has long since become one of the city's solid and substantial enterprises and its able management gives it a firmer hold on public favor as the years go by. Both partners are gentlemen of the highest order of integrity and have the fullest confidence of their patrons. Mr. Kitchen in 1901 remembered that he had left his heart in Houston, Tex., nine years before and went back to see about it. He found it still in the keeping of Mrs. Rubiedick Smith and they were happily married on July 1st.

Mr. Kitchen has long been a leading member of the First Baptist church. He was treasurer for six years and has been the head usher for 17 years. A year ago he became a member of the board of deacons. He is a member of the Woodmen of the World, of the Travelers Protective Association and the Hopkinsville Business Men's Association. Of the latter organization he has been a director for several years.

CARON'S NEW CITY DIRECTORY

Fourth Volume Gives Hopkinsville Population Of 11,265.

A representative of Caron's Directory began delivering the 1916 volume of the city directory Monday. The book is considerably larger than the previous volumes and is well bound in durable cloth and its typographical appearance is very attractive. A front page contains the following introductory:

"We take pleasure in placing before the public our fourth volume of the Hopkinsville City Directory.

"The population of Hopkinsville, according to the census taken by our canvassers, is as follows:

"White 6,288
"Colored 4,977

Total 11,265

"This is an increase of 629 over the census of 1914 taken by our firm.

"We note a number of substantial improvements in Hopkinsville since our last issue in 1914. Several handsome buildings are now being constructed. The Methodist Episcopal Church is erecting a place of worship at a cost of $60,000. The city is building a high school for colored people at a cost of $25,000.

"As a loose leaf tobacco market, Hopkinsville leads the world. Over the loose leaf floors during the year of 1915-1916 30,000,000 pounds of tobacco was handled. The average price paid per pound was 7 cents.

"Hopkinsville and Christian county rank among the first as an agricultural center. It is estimated that in this county during the coming season, the farmers will raise about 2,000,000 bushels of wheat. This is about one-tenth of the total wheat crop of Kentucky. Tobacco, wheat, corn, oats and alfalfa are among the chief products grown in this county. Stock is also extensively raised.

"Hopkinsville is the half-way point on the Dixie Bee Line between Evansville and Nashville.

"The county recently voted $4,000,000 in bonds to enlarge the turnpike system of the county already consisting of 220 miles.

"The Hopkinsville Business Men's Association is a live wire. It is composed of the leading business and professional men of the city, and is doing a splendid work.

"The value of property, real and personal, in Hopkinsville for 1916 is as follows: Real estate, $3,329,245; personalty, $1,259,640; total, $4,588,885. Franchises not tabulated, approximately $350,000.

"The postoffice receipts for the past year were $30,850.

The publishers wish to thank the business men and citizens for the generous support and assistance given them in this, their fourth, issue of the Hopkinsville Directory.

Save the Scraps.

The Fleish Scrap Material Co., has opened for business in the Thompson Loose Floor house, 10th street, near L. & N. Depot, for the purpose of buying Scrap Iron, Rags, Rope, Rubber, Metals, Paper Stock, Hides, Tallow, Wool and Roots. In fact, all grades of junk in this line. They solicit and want business. Don't let these materials rot around your premises. Gather them up and take the stuff to them and turn waste into money.

Lewis Fleish, who is in charge of the business, comes well recommended and proposes to supply a needed market in the city for these wasted materials.

HAD 100 ADDITIONS.

A revival at the Christian church in Madisonville has just closed with 100 additions to the church. Seventy members of Company E were present Sunday night to hear Mr. Thomas preach on "Mother" and 18 of them went forward.
